

You've Earned Space-A Travel. Use It.

Space-Available ("Space-A") travel isn't a perk or a favor. It's a benefit codified in DoD policy (DoDI 4515.13) that lets eligible passengers fly on U.S. military aircraft at little to no cost when unused seats are available. You earned it, and it's yours to use. The hard part has always been finding the seats. FlySpaceA gathers scattered terminal schedules into one clean, searchable place. We've been tracking these flights for over a year, and nobody has Space-A data this rich.

WHAT YOU GET FREE

- 1 Live flight schedules
Schedules from military passenger terminals worldwide, cleaned up and searchable — with confirmed 72-hour and 30-day projected flights clearly distinguished.
- 2 Interactive route map
Departures, arrivals, and active routes across Europe, the Pacific, and North America at a glance.
- 3 Email alerts
Notifications for your preferred routes and airports. Know the moment new flights are posted.
- 4 Eligibility tools
A quick questionnaire shows which Space-A category you fall under and what to bring.
- 5 Terminal directory
Contact details and DSN numbers for passenger terminals, so you can confirm before you go.

Free now and free later. Every core feature is free and staying that way. Future paid options will add advanced statistics and AI-powered planning.
